

Spring is here and we're on the verge of summer, so let's recap what happened the past few months!

The Battle of the Books Competition

By Gabriella Liscio

The Battle of the Books competition took place during the end of March, and was held at Lincoln Middle School. Lakeside's 7th grade students won first place and the 6th grade won 2nd out of 14 other schools. The Battle of the Books club read many books including Deenie by Judy Blume and The Giver by Lois Lowry. Without Mrs. Gaddis and Ms. Holland as their teachers, they wouldn't have won the competition!

SAVANNAH WILLIAMS CRUSHES HER DANCE COMPETITION

Savannah has been dancing for 5 years now. She dances/practices for long hours each day and her favorite skill to do is an aerial. At her dance competition she competes against many other people. There are different types of dances like group dances, solos, duos and trios. Depending on the type of dances that are in the competition, she competes at different times of the day and at the end there are awards. There are also different types of awards to win such as 1st in categories, overall awards and best group dances. Savannah is very talented and enjoys what she does.

Created by Jordan Depack

CAMERON DELLALA WINS BIG AT DANCE COMPETITION

Dance competitions take a lot of time, effort, and practice to make it on stage. Cameron DeLalla is a dancer who spends hours working with her teammates in order to provide the best performance that they have to offer. When she has the time, she is preparing the finest solo dance the judges will witness. Dance competitions, specifically JUMP's dance conventions, are a stressful environment and one can simply break under all the pressure.

But not Cameron DeLalla.

On March 17th, 2023, Cameron went against 80 soloists to compete for the title of Best Dancer. She spends hours practicing and choreographing for the event. After constant hours of practicing, rehearsing, and polishing, she makes it as JUMP's 2023, first place winner with the title of Best Dancer. Congrats Cami!

Created by Mikaela Sotto

Practical Arts

Practical Arts night was a big moment for many. Projects from Mr. Wilson's class were on display, the portraits made by the A.T students were on display, and art projects from previous grades were also shown. Not to mention, Mr. Stier and Mrs. Brantner had organized the induction of the Tri-M Music Honor Society students during the night as well. Many different performances from many different students also took place throughout the night.

The new and senior members of the Tri-M Music Honor Society include:

Addison Adams

Bailey Boyce

Jocelyn Brock

Alexandra Camacho

Ashley Cebollon - Treasurer

Gianna Clouse

Tydus Deona

Jenna Derosa - Historian

Liam Drazek

Makalya Faley

Ethan Huha

Taylor Johnson

Rylee Judge

Amy Liguori

Sydney Lind - Secretary

Ariana McClendon

Yeva Orynbekova - Vice President

Ayelen Osio

Finlee Patrick - President

Xavier Parra

Alexa Pavlich

Emily Robertson

Julianna Russo

Teddy Dela Victoria

Samuel Wasserman

Congrats to everyone who was accepted into this group!

Night!

Created by

Finlee

Patrick

A decorative sprig of lavender flowers with green leaves and small purple blossoms, extending from the top left corner down the left side of the page.

Butterflies

We are all butterflies, flapping our wings,
learning to fly, even though we are sometimes deeply struggling on the inside.
Our colors shine brightly, without a doubt.
Sometimes we have no time to count, count the hours we are alive, and thank the sky for letting us fly.

By: Leah Colavito (6th grade) one day, i'd like to visit the moon.

it kinda seems like the world will end soon caving in on itself with one big boom no more life or things to grow and bloom

imagine that, on the moon we see from here to live on there and see the earth so clear nothing annoying or negative to hear on a giant floating rock with no atmosphere!

who cares if if you don't have anything to eat there isn't even any air to breathe all we have is the stars to see just imagine how the no-weather will be!

running through the craters must be so fun endless amounts of places to run every earth law is gone, completely done.

the best we could've done is throw them at the sun flying around with barely any gravity being on the moon will let me escape reality

let go of everything that deeply saddens me along with the moon, the sunless half would shadow me

disappearing with a spark just like a cartoon i'd forget such things like homework and school in order to do that, i'll be gone very soon so goodbye forever, i'm going to the moon.

If I was a _____ I would be.....

Mom, I want to be a turtle.....

But turtles only eat vegetables

Mom I don't want to be a turtle I don't like vegetables.....

Mom, I want to be a cheetah.....

But cheetah's live out in the desert it will be to warm

Mom, I don't want to be a cheetah. I don't like being warm.....

Mom, I want to be food.....

But people and animals eat food. Do you want to get eaten?

Mom I don't want to be food I don't want to get eaten.....

Mom, I want to be an owl.....

But owls sleep during the day and are out during the night when it is dark

Mom, I don't want to be an owl. I don't like to be outside when it is dark.....

Mom, I want to be a unicorn.....

That sounds so fun but don't you just want to be yourself?

Mom I don't want to be a unicorn I want to be myself.....

People like me

When I was young, I never really saw people like me anywhere. On TV, in movies, in school, at restaurants, and in public were the same recycled faces I've seen many times before. They had white pristine skin. Mine was a discolored tan and ever so slightly bumpy. Their eyes beamed and radiated in a childlike manner. Mine had sharp corners. They had sandy blond hair or chocolate brown curls. Mine had black tangled strands. They had picturesque families and homes with white picket fences. Mine had rice cookers and messy rooms. Their parents spent time with them. Mine were always working. Their flaws were canonized and admired, mine were simply exacerbated. As I grew, I saw. I saw Koreans. I saw Chinese. I saw Japanese. I saw Latinos and Latinas. I saw African-Americans. I witness every shade of color under the sun. I saw everyone else. But I never saw myself. And while I look back to see those Koreans and Chinese and Japanese and Latinos and African-Americans were created in an amalgamation of ignorance and passed ideals, I still wished that I had people to look at that resembled an inch of me. People I could dress up for Halloween. People I could look up to. People that made me feel as if I belonged in a grand scheme of things. People I could connect with on a deeper scale.

People like me.

Created by Mikaela Sotto

alumina. auquelin to alumina, in-incapable of
um. Haiy had ally identical with auquelin found that give any special de Chimie salts her trated nitric acid and ringly in these liquids di ely used for pyrotechnic of green fire, and for der known as saxifra rts of nitrate of bariu been already stated minerals. Barium

a flint-glass in which is will be describe

134 These metals decompose water only at a high temp They are volatile and burn with bright flame when he the air. Each metal forms only one oxide and one s With the exception of the slightly soluble magnesium ox oxides are insoluble in water. The sulphates of this g metals are soluble, the normal carbonates and pho insoluble, in water.

BERYLLIUM OR GLUCINUM, Be =